

Dixie Highway Official Visits Grayling

Warner B. Sayer, of Lexington, Ky., vice president of the Dixie Highway association, was in Grayling Wednesday noon. About 15 Grayling citizens attended a luncheon given in his honor at Shoppenagons Inn.

Mr. Sayer gave a resume of aims and hopes of the Association, which principally is for the construction of a super highway from Florida to Canada, passing thru the states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida.

In order to accomplish this plan it has been necessary to interest the governments of these several states and also the federal government. Wherever Mr. Sayer and the other association officials have gone, they have been given enthusiastic reception.

This is a non-profit organization. There are association units in every state thru which the proposed highway is scheduled, and also in most of the cities it passes thru. Grayling has nearly fifty members of the association which unit is doing its part toward making the proposed project a reality. Royal Wright is president of the local organization. Last winter George Stanley was the local delegate to a meeting held in Lexington.

An attractive booklet of 36 pages, nicely illustrated, has just been put into circulation. It is expected that Grayling will have a quantity to circulate to local people soon.

JUDGE SHARPE'S SON DIES IN WEST BRANCH

Leo N. Sharpe, son of the late Supreme Court Justice, Nelson Sharpe, of West Branch and Germantown, Penn., attorney, died at Tolfree Memorial hospital in West Branch Monday morning after being stricken with pneumonia last week Monday. Sharpe, who had been in the hospital since Wednesday, was placed in an oxygen tent Sunday when his condition became critical. His father, the late Justice Sharpe, was circuit judge of the 34th judicial circuit for 26 years and served as Michigan supreme court justice for 18 years from 1919 to 1937.

Kneff-Corwin

In a simple ceremony which took place last Saturday evening at nine o'clock at St. Mary's rectory, Mrs. Dorothy Kneff was united in marriage to Mr. Nelson Corwin. The Reverend Father James H. Moloney officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in a dress of periwinkle blue with dubonnet accessories. She wore a dainty corsage of tiny white zinnias and baby breath.

On Sunday, following the ceremony, the couple were guests of honor at a dinner given at Lindenwood Lodge on the AuSable by members of their immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Corwin have both resided in Grayling for many years, and best wishes are heartily extended to them by their many relatives and friends.

Success in life is not so much a matter of talent or opportunity, as of concentration and perseverance.

JONES-FUNSCH WEDDING

A pretty wedding was held at South Branch church last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Starr officiating, in the presence of many friends and relatives. The church was prettily decorated with garden flowers and ferns.

Miss Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Jones, of Roscommon, was married to Robert Funsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Funsch, of Eldorado.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette with flowing white veil of net and carried a bouquet of roses. Florabelle Jones, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a gown of yellow organdy. The flower girl, Patty Lee Linder, was groomed in blue taffeta. L. J. Dusenbury of Roscommon was best man and the ushers were Wilson Hartman and Roy Hartman.

Doris Veith of Lansing sang "Because" and "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. Edward Jones of Kalamazoo.

Following the ceremony the happy couple left on a honeymoon tour through northern Michigan.

The bride is a graduate of the Flint Central high school, class of '38, while the groom graduated from the Roscommon high school in 1936.

Out-of-town guests present for the wedding were Mrs. Vernon L. Veith and son, Vernon, and daughters Doris and Joan, of Lansing; Mrs. Morton Kline, aunt of the groom, and her daughter, Helen, of Tecumseh; Mrs. Edward Jones, of Kalamazoo.

Production of fingerling trout at the Grayling state fish hatchery, shown above, will increase materially when remodeling activity now being carried on with CCC assistance is completed. New rearing ponds are under construction, a pump house is being built and grounds are being landscaped. The hatchery, producing principally brook trout, with smaller numbers of brown and rainbow trout, now supplies several million fingerling trout annually for planting in Michigan waters.

Grayling Boys Win Honors At Ft. Brady

Honors were won by four young men of Grayling and vicinity this summer at Fort Brady. There were Robert R. Welsh, marksman, Frank May, marksman, Kenneth Peterson, marksman, and Frank R. Jensen, member of soft ball runner-up team.

They are among the 271 young men of Upper Michigan who have just returned home after completing a thirty-day voluntary period of training in the 1939 Citizens' Military Training Camp, Cyrus J. English at Fort Brady in Sault Ste. Marie.

Under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel Hayes Kroner, in command at Fort Brady, the trainees have been given instruction directed toward the four-fold objectives of military preparedness, good citizenship and the building of character and health. A total of 75 reserve officers from infantry regiments of Michigan and Wisconsin aided in the instruction of these youths during the camp period.

The military phase of the C.M.T.C. course gave the trainees actual experience in the various phases of army life. All the trainees took part in range firing. Rifles, pistol, automatic rifles and machine guns were the weapons used for this practice.

The trainees paraded for several notables and civic bodies. Among those honored was the Honorable Fred Bradley, United States Representative from Rogers City, the Honorable Paul L. Adams, Mayor of Sault Ste. Marie, the Sault Chamber of Commerce and the service clubs to that city (Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions).

Athletics shared with the military in the program of the camp. The mornings were devoted to soldiering with a half hour break for group singing, led by 1st Lt. Austin J. Henry, Catholic Chaplain.

The afternoons were devoted to a full sports program with softball, volleyball, swimming, boxing, tennis and horseshoes providing a medium for recreation and body building to all trainees during the thirty-day period.

An ample supply of good food and careful medical supervision provided further health benefits to the young men. As phrased by 1st Lt. L. W. Gabert, Dental Corps-Reserve of Milwaukee, Sanitary Officer at Fort Brady during the closing period of the camp, "The sanitary condition and facilities of this camp are the best I have ever seen."

In addition to Dr. Gabert, there were two reserve officers of the medical corps on duty with the trainees.

There were 1st Lieutenants C. A. Vedder of Marshallfield, Wisconsin and J. L. Knapp of Traverse City. While Father Henry, of Milwaukee, took charge of the spiritual needs of the Catholic trainees, Captain James C. Peterson, Lutheran Minister of Kenosha, Wisconsin administered to the Protestant boys.

Many Species of Kangaroos There are about 50 species of kangaroos, belonging to 12 or 15 genera. The largest are as tall as a man and weigh 150 pounds. The smallest are not as big as a rabbit. One of the most interesting species is the tree-climbing kangaroo discovered in Queensland. The giant kangaroo can kill a man or a dog with one slash of the big-toe claw.

House of David Team Here Mon., Aug. 21

Monday night will bring to the Grayling ball park for the first time the "Original Colored House of David" ball team. This will be the season's outstanding performance for the great national pastime.

Mixing "Altrock Antics" with their big league style of play should prove to be something out of the ordinary for the Grayling fans.

This game is called for 5:30 p. m. so as to give everyone a chance to see it. Grayling will have the usual starting lineup. Admission will be 35c; children over twelve, 15c.

Alpena Here Sunday

One of the most important games in the Northern Michigan League will take place here Sunday when Grayling tackles Alpena for the second time this season. Grayling won the first game in Alpena by the score 7-1, with Clayton "Zeke" Anthony turning in a first class pitching performance.

However it remains to be seen what will happen Sunday. Don't miss these two games.

Grayling still holds second place, trailing East Jordan by one full game.

Old Guard Lumbermen Picnic Here Sat.

The Old Guard Lumbermen of Michigan will hold their annual summer stag picnic here on Saturday, August 19th.

The local committee, composed of Emil Giegling, T. P. Peterson and Carl Johnson, have provided a day of golf at the local Golf club, and a camp dinner at CCC Camp Hartwick Pines, to be followed by a program of talks and a social evening.

About 60 members of the Old Guard are expected for this event.

CONSERVATION OFFICERS GET FINE COOPERATION

Harry Souders, conservation officer, reports that this area has had very little trouble with forest fires. One thing they still have to watch very carefully is the carelessness of some smokers from the cities. There, he said, they are used to flipping cigarette stubs almost anywhere without danger. Here, however, in dry grass areas, this practice is dangerous. While it may be done thoughtlessly, still that doesn't lessen the danger of forest fire.

On the most part, Mr. Souders said, the general public is very cooperative and will do everything they know how to do to prevent fires, and to assist us conservation officers.

When asked about trout fishing, he said that just as soon as the rivers settle down after those last heavy rains storms, fishing should be good. Right now, however, it isn't very good.

Standish Man Falls To Death

JOSEPH TIMCO LOSES HIS FOOTING ON TRUCK

Injured when he fell from the back of a moving truck, Joseph Timco, 29, of Standish, was dead upon admittance to Mercy Hospital about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Timco was standing up on the rear platform of a truck driven by Harold Funk, of Luzerne, and owned by S. D. Drowley, pulpwood operator of Luzerne, when he lost his balance and fell headlong to the ground, suffering a fractured skull.

Timco, Funk and Kenneth Drowley, also of Luzerne, had picked up a load of rocks near Smith bridge on the AuSable river about 20 miles east of here, and had just started towards Luzerne when the accident occurred.

Timco was a former employee of Drowley and had just arrived Tuesday from his home in Standish, seeking work. He had accompanied Funk and young Drowley, although not as an employee, it was said.

Deputy Sheriff George Stanley and Dr. Stanley A. Stealy, Crawford county coroner, investigated. No inquest was held.

COAST GUARD TRAINING AT CAMP GRAYLING

A complement of 45 officers and men from the U. S. Coast guard station on Lake Michigan are stationed at Camp Grayling for special training. This group is remaining for one week, and will be followed by a similar group of 45, who also will remain for a week.

The men are selected from several different coast guard organizations, serving on the western shores of Lake Michigan.

MR. AND MRS. ESBERN HANSON HOSTS

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Esbern Hanson were hosts at a very delightful dinner for sixteen guests at their summer home at Lake Margrethe. Very attractive arrangements of garden flowers made the rooms a lovely setting for the dinner.

High scores for contract, which followed the dinner, fell to Mrs. H. A. Bauman and Mr. Walter Woodson, of Salisbury, N. C.

Guests included the Hanson families.

Ladies Golf Club

Forty-three ladies sat down to luncheon at Shoppenagons Inn Wednesday afternoon with the Ladies Auxillary as the hostess and the Gaylord club as the guest club. The luncheon followed a golf game in the morning resulting in Mrs. Berry having the low score for Gaylord and a tie between Mrs. Esbern Olson and Mary Jane Joseph. The two ladies will play off the tie.

Six tables of contract were in play in the afternoon, Mrs. Reaume of Gaylord having high score for the guest club and Mrs. A. J. Joseph for the hostess club. The Grayling ladies will go to Gaylord next Tuesday, August 22.

Contractors Broke Under Sales Tax Law

Lansing, Aug. 15—The State Board of Tax Administration was preparing a notice today to be sent to plumbing, heating and electrical contractors, all of whom were brought under the sales tax law this month.

Under the board's new ruling the contractors have been divided into three classifications for the purpose of checking existing leaks in the sales tax collections. Plumbers, heating men and electricians who do more than a contracting business must obtain a Sales Tax License and pay to the State Board of Tax Administration a tax on all their materials. Those engaged in contracting exclusively will pay the regular three percent tax when they buy their materials from the wholesaler or supply house. Wholesale and manufacturers must also obtain a Sales Tax License and file the regular returns with the state.

In compliance with the new regulations which became effective on Aug. 1, 1939, all plumbing, heating and electrical contractors must file notice of their classification with the tax administration board.

LOCAL TOURIST HOME ROB-BED BY 16-YEAR-OLD BOY

Fred Williams, a 16-year-old youth of Chicago, is in the hands of local police authorities on a charge of thievery. The lad, riding a bicycle, arrived in town Sunday night and went to a tourist home and paid for a room for the night. It was about 7:30 o'clock. The tourist home owner showed him his room and went about entertaining some house guests.

One of the lady guests leaving about a half hour later discovered her purse gone, and the lady of the house looking for her purse found it had been emptied. They immediately became suspicious of the bicyclist as he was nowhere in sight nor was his bicycle. Deputy sheriff George Stanley was put on his trail and through a couple of young sleuths it was learned that he had registered and paid for a room at the Fischer hotel. However he had asked the clerk if there was a good movie in town and had gone out immediately, leaving his bike behind the counter. Deputy sheriff Stanley waited for him to return to the hotel, which was about midnight, and he immediately confessed his guilt.

He had taken the stolen purse down to the State street bridge and put it into the water, weighing it down with a stone, first taking the money. He accompanied the officer to the place and the purse was returned to the lady, who together with the tourist home owner were loathe to press any charges, because of Williams' youth.

However he is being held and this morning appeared for hearing before Judge Charles Moore in Probate court. Local authorities were in touch with Chicago authorities Tuesday and discovered the boy was a runaway.

MRS. O. W. HANSON ENTER-TAINS

Some twenty-five ladies were guests of Mrs. O. W. Hanson at a bridge luncheon at her summer home at Lake Margrethe Tuesday afternoon. Garden flowers brightened the rooms in which the ladies were served.

The occasion also celebrated the birthday anniversary of Miss Margrethe Bauman who was quite surprised when a brightly lighted birthday cake was placed before her and even more surprised when she was presented with a box piled high with small gifts from the guests.

Mrs. Walter Woodson of Salisbury, N. C., held the honor score for contract.

Bigger And Better Michigan State Fair

Michigan is to have a bigger and better State Fair in 1939 than any in its long history.

That is the promise of Linwood W. Snow, present General Manager of the fair. For the 90th Anniversary Celebration of this annual event, he has gathered the greatest array of features—educational, industrial entertainment and amusement—that have ever been presented on the State Fair Grounds in Detroit during any one fair. The dates of the fair are September 1 to 10.

Don't be like a rocking chair—full of motion but with no progress.

My Alaska Cruise

The following notations were taken from the diary kept by Gertrude Foley of this city, on her recent trip to Alaska. They were written on the train, on the steamer, and in motor cars. They represent chats with citizens, officers, miners, and old "sour-doughs" who survived the gold rush.

On board the S.S. Yukon at Seattle, Wash., she took the inland passage and skirted the high snow-capped mountains that separate Alaska from British Columbia. The whole region seemed to be of the flood type, the shores rising abruptly hundreds, often thousands of feet above the sea, with bordering or entering floods of such great depth as to permit the large ships to safely skirt the very shore. The land surfaces were most irregular and it is with difficulty that a square mile of fairly level land can be found. The whole country is more or less densely wooded with spruce and Alaska cedar, to a height of several hundred feet above the sea.

The virgin newness of the surroundings, the freezing breezes from the glacier formations, and the sun that shines at midnight were among the surprises of the trip.

On Board the S. S. Yukon, enroute to Skagway.

Ketchikan

It was raining when the boat docked at Ketchikan, but most of the younger passengers hurried down the gang-plank to see the town, which was situated right on the water against a background of towering green mountains crested with snow.

There are many canneries and cold storage plants near the dock and the mining of platinum, gold, silver, and lead is carried on back in the mountains.

The business district rests on piles. The streets are plank roadways built upon posts and the heavy motor trucks that haul the freight jar the whole block. The best houses are built high on the cliffs. It is so steep that one has to climb stairways to reach them. The Ketchikaners make one think of tree dwellers, who climb ladders to get to their homes.

It kept raining steadily as I went dashing about gazing at totem poles and purchasing curios at the various stores. I asked one of the citizens: "Does it ever stop raining in Ketchikan?" He replied with a laugh: "I hardly know, I have lived here only twenty years."

Many of the people in the town were gathered at the dock to see the boat leave. The orchestra on board played a jolly tune and we were off for other ports.

Wrangell And The Narrows

July 13, 1939

This town is situated near the mouth of the Stikine River, outfitting point for big game hunters. It has many canneries, totem poles, and curio stores. The Russian Governor, Baron Wrangell, visited here in 1830.

After leaving Wrangell the boat was skillfully piloted thru the Wrangell Narrows, a most scenic region. I sat in a deck-chair, sheltered by the great smokestacks on the hurricane-deck, and watched the beauty of the night, each hour a different color, until the burned-out red of the night faded into the primrose of dawn. To me the landscape was never twice alike. At times the forests formed a solid mountain of green on each side of the channel, then again the mountains would rise sheer from the water to a great height, with snow upon their crests and occasional cataracts foaming down the side. One is tormented with the desire to reach out one's hand and strip the cool green cedar needles from the drooping branches.

Taku Glacier

July 14, 1939
I had the thrill of my life this morning when I walked out on deck and saw the famous Taku Glacier. Our steamer slowly pushed its way to the face of the ice wall, so that we were within four hundred feet of the ice when we stopped.

At that moment the sun shone full on the glacier, which became one vast expanse of silver, frosted with diamonds and sparkling with sapphires. Later it took on a hue of aquamarine. It was all so out of my dream.

Grayling Getting Out Of The Sand

The people of Grayling can thank the City Council and City Manager George Granger for gradually getting this community out of the sand. What would be mud in most cities, here is sand and gravel.

It isn't difficult to remember a few years back when sawdust and bark were about the only kind of street dressing we had. It was, perhaps, all right for that time, but in recent years Grayling has deserved and is getting better streets.

Of course the paving of Michigan avenue, and later, U. S. 27, were maximum forward steps. Since then improvements of lighter nature have steadily advanced.

Oil for dust-laying has been used quite extensively for the past few years. While this has made life more comfortable, especially for those residents living on these streets, still the treatment is good for only a year. Black-top is now being added annually, and Manager Granger says that if the people will be patient a little longer, that eventually all largely-used streets will be paved by that method. It naturally is more expensive than oil treatment, but its permanency will in a few years prove its economy. There is a financial limit that may be provided for street improvement, so it is going to take a few years to complete the plan the Council has approved.

Mr. Granger and the Council deserve the thanks of the public for what they are doing.

Pineapples Called Sweetest
Puerto Rican pineapple is said to be the sweetest in the world. The natives call it pan de azucar (bread of sugar). It is smaller, more mellow and a deeper color than Hawaiian pineapple.

Kiwanians Guests Of Camp AuSable

The Kiwanis club accepted an invitation from Captain Pritchard of CCC Camp AuSable to be their guests Wednesday evening. About 30 were in attendance.

Upon their arrival the Kiwanians were at once struck by the beauty of the camp, with its nicely mowed and trimmed lawns and huge floral beds all in full bloom. It was an inspiring sight. And the walks and buildings too were trim and sleek.

This is a camp of veterans. Here and there men were sitting around enjoying a quiet game of pinocle, cribbage and other card games, and the recreation building resounded with the clicking of pool and billiard balls. On a high pole a loud speaker was giving the base ball scores, telling the news of the day and dispensing good music. The camp was delightfully orderly and very pleasant.

The visitors found a friendly group awaiting them. Capt. Pritchard, his assistants and the men of the camp, all were most cordial in their greetings. And you may be sure the Kiwanians felt right in for a pleasant evening.

These camps feed well and it was a hungry crowd that sat down and enjoyed a bountiful and tasty dinner. For some reason or other, these dinners just touch the spot. Whether it is because of a specially sharpened appetite or because it is different, we wouldn't attempt to say. And green corn on the cob seemed to melt away just about as fast as the waiters could bring it in. It is rumored that at least one of the guests came away with a pocket full. Brief talks were made by President Charles E. Moore, Capt. Pritchard, and T. P. Peterson. Dr. Clippert led in the singing.

The officers and men of the camp take a lot of justifiable pride in their institution and in the work they are doing. Every building was open for the inspection of the visitors.

After making the rounds of the place, those of the Kiwanians who remained, enjoyed an evening in the officers quarters. This place is attractive, with its knotty jackpine ceiling and walls, and huge stone fireplace. Cushioned chairs and divans, tables, bookcases, pictures and mounted heads of animals, made the place attractive and cozy and comfortable.

There are always to be found a number of musicians in such a camp and this was no exception. A concertina, guitar and banjo, in the hands of clever musicians entertained with their selections. For a while this group was augmented by Kiwanian Max Laage with his drum.

The evening passed altogether too quickly, leaving memories of a very enjoyable evening.

Health &amp; Hygiene

CAUSES OF BALDNESS

The person who discovers a preventive and cure for baldness will reap riches. Several "discoverers" already have become rich, but their remedies were based upon promises and not results.

There is a constant stream of research being published about the growth of the hair, but none of it seems to promise much. One investigator studied the effect of diet on the growth of the hair. By analyzing hair, he found that a protein substance, called cystine, was a prominent ingredient. Then by shaving animals and providing them a diet poor in cystine, he was able to delay the growth of hair. However, there appears to be no particular relation between diet and baldness, and besides there is an abundance of cystine in the usual diet.

The relation of dandruff to baldness often has been emphasized. The African native has dandruff in plentiful amounts but no baldness, and from this it may be reasoned that the use of hats has caused modern men to become bald but to save our hair from this "cause" we would have to go back many generations and remedy the evil. Baldness has been called a sign of virility in men because the scalp hair disappears the beard tends to increase in density.

From the age of 20 baldness in certain individuals seems inevitable to everyone, and, at the age of 30, the victim begins to appreciate the fact himself. He then makes the rounds of barber shop treatments, drug store remedies, and scalp treatment parlors. He finally visits a dermatologist who tells him there is nothing to be done and at the age of 40 the nude swath from the eyebrows to the occiput needs only protection from the flies.

The subject recently has received the attention of a prominent English dermatologist who describes the man who will become bald as subject to a form of skin infection. The skin is oily, he sweats easily, and from puberty on, his scalp is covered by dandruff.

The treatment, excepting the advertised frauds, has consisted of trying to keep the scalp free of dandruff by weekly shampoos, and daily brushing, together with the use of a hair lotion in which alcohol is the principal constituent. The following lotion may be applied daily for a short time, and later every third day.

The DEBUNKER

COLOR IS NOT "SKIN DEEP"

When we say that the color of a brown, yellow or black person is only "skin deep," we are still not accurate. The skin is made up of two general layers, the outer epidermis and the inner dermis (or true skin). The pigment granules which give color to the dark races are located in the epidermis, in the muscous malphigian layer just under the horny outer surface. No blood vessels enter this layer, which is nourished by the deeper subjacent corium layer. So color is less than half "skin deep" at best and outside the true skin.

Building Dam Across Muskegon River

Flooding of 2,500 acres of marsh and grass lands west of Houghton lake is assured through approval of a CCC project for the construction of a dam across the Muskegon river. The department of conservation announced today that construction would begin immediately.

The flooded area will provide habitat for waterfowl, shorebirds and muskrats, according to the game division of the department which is sponsoring the project. Increased water depths in the Muskegon river, Dead stream channels, and bayous will improve fish habitat and will result in more navigable waters for anglers using boats, it was stated.

Hold that temper! The value of keeping calm at all times, especially while driving an automobile is important. Many times during your driving experience, you probably have felt like tearing apart the driver ahead of you because of some stupid act of his; but in the end, what did you gain?

Be alert at all times and give some of these stupid drivers an opportunity to get out of your way. Do not let them cause you any embarrassment or involve you in an accident.

Keep your car under control at all times—travel the safe speed—and above all, "leave your goat" at home.

"It's Smart to Drive Carefully!"

A checkup of the nation's fatalities for 1938 is convincing proof that the pedestrian could materially improve that record by being careful.

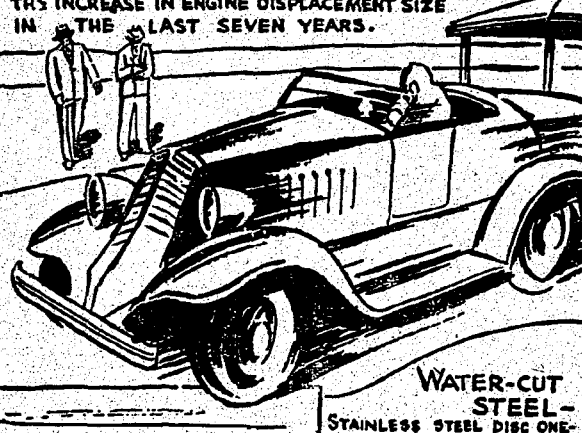

Almost 40 per cent of the automobile fatalities last year were pedestrians. The automobile driver is not always to blame. The pedestrian sometimes puts the driver in a very precarious situation by "dumb" walking. In some sections of the country, special campaigns and safety drives are being made to educate the pedestrian on safe conduct on our streets and highways.

Walk when you have the lights with you. Do not cross streets in the center of the block—cross at intersections. Do not jay-walk.

Breadfruit Guarded
In Samoa, where the breadfruit is so important, a native would plait some coconut leaflets in the form of a sea-pike and hang one or more such effigies from the trees. No native would dare steal from a tree so guarded, for if he did, a sea-pike would mortally wound him the next time he went fishing.

Copper Featured At World's Fair

CENTURIES ago, long before the dawn of history, copper was first mined and used for implements of war and for necessities of commercial life by a half-savage tribe which inhabited the island of Cyprus, off the Greek coast. This metal was so useful that it became their most cherished possession and they named it in honor of their home, "Cyprian Metal," which name it has kept through the ages although our tongues have changed it to "Copper."

Metals Building, New York World's Fair. It is an animated diorama showing primitive man extracting copper by melting it out of rock by fire. He then hammered the red metal into arrowheads, as implements of war and for commercial purposes. These half-savage people lived mainly on hunting and fishing, and they depended for their subsistence on copper for the spear-throwing of fish and the slaying of animals.

Down through the ages, copper has been man's most useful metal—Old as Time, Modern as Tomorrow.

Sault Ste. Marie—At this never failing economic barometer for the Middle-West, the world famous St. Mary's locks and canal, least traffic is more than 40 per cent ahead of last season.

When iron ore and coal are in demand, times are fairly prosperous. There has been no exception.

Furthermore, according to Eugene Herman of Cleveland, editor of the Great Lakes News, who is spending August here, prospects are good for a heavy lake traffic during September and October. Barges are even being recommissioned for service.

That means steady employment this fall for hundreds of thousands of workers in the big industrial centers. When orders for goods are in sight, iron ore is in demand and so, if the actual count of ore boats at the "Soo" locks is an accurate yardstick, then we are enjoying better times, and the trade outlook for Fall is bright, indeed.

Paul Bunyon Country

Paul Bunyon must have been born at the "Soo."

After you cross the Straits of Mackinac and set foot on the Upper Peninsula, comparisons at once seem puny. They fail to do justice to this fascinating country which was immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in "Hiawatha."

The international border city is only an hour's easy ride over smooth, wide concrete highway from St. Ignace. First you travel through pine forests, cross a series of hills, and then traverse a fairly level prairie-land of prosperous farms in Chippewa county of which the American Sault Ste. Marie is the county seat.

The Michigan city has 15,000 population. Across from the St. Mary's river is the Canadian city of the same name with around 24,000 people. A dime bridge toll charge and you are in Canada.

But getting back to Paul Bunyon. Here is what we discovered:

World's Busiest Canal

In these Lansing days of state deficits, the St. Mary's locks and canal under proper state ownership and management would have been a virtual gold mine of revenue.

Here is the world's greatest waterway, and no fooling!

The three locks of the canal, which has been managed by the United States government since 1880, serve more water traffic in one year than do the Panama and Suez canals combined. An average of 60 to 85 vessels, mostly ore-carrying freighters, pass through the locks every 24 hours. Modern machinery enables the locks to complete their job in about 13 minutes. The United States engineering department is on the job 24 hours a day, 2200 employees working in eight-hour shifts.

The State of Michigan operated the locks from 1855 to 1881, and a toll was charged to cover operating and repair expenses as the state now does for the ferry service at the Straits. Even at the small tonnage in those days, tolls amounted to nearly $800,000.

If the State of Michigan were still in the canal business (ships and if tolls were charged at the rate prevailing today for the Panama canal, the state's income would have been over $73,000, 000 for 1929 and $31,940,000 for 1933.

Under the 1881 federal act transferring the locks from state to federal ownership, it was provided that the waterway shall be free for public use.

Mecca for Tourists

Sault Ste. Marie is an annual mecca for tens of thousands of tourists, especially during the hay fever season. Because not a rag-weed grows within 100 miles of the Sault, this region is the paradise of the hay fever and asthma victims.

The Sault is almost entirely surrounded by water. The prevailing direction of the wind is from the northwest, off Lake Superior which Paul Bunyon would proudly proclaim is the largest body of fresh water in the world.

The concentration of hay fever sufferers has been so heavy that a national club has been formed—the Ca-Choo club of the Hay Fever association of America, with headquarters here.

Because also of the always fascinating locks, this northern Michigan city has received a heavy influx of tourists. Within the past year tourist cabins have doubled in number, attracting many persons who formerly sought accommodations at hotels or in private homes. The latter two groups are beginning to complain. Modernization of hotel accommodations is said to be the next needed development to keep pace with changing times. Deluxe cabins can be found today in the Upper Peninsula.

Sagas of Early America

Here is a country rich in historical lore.

It was at the Soo that the first white man, Jean Nicolet, stopped in 1634 while on his way to find China.

It was here that Fr. Marquette established the first Christian church in 1668, and it was here that St. Lussan in 1671 in the name of King Louis XIV took over all the lands that subsequently became British when nations were in the making.

It was at the Soo also that Henry Schoolcraft, Indian agent, married the daughter of John Johnston, first English settler, and his Indian princess-wife, and later wrote Indian history that gave Longfellow his material for Hiawatha.

In this poem "Bowating" is Sault Ste. Marie and refers to the rapids in the St. Mary's river. "Gitchee Gomee" is Lake Superior. Michigan's Upper Peninsula is the background for the only sagas which America has mothered—Hiawatha and Paul Bunyon. Paul's birthplace is proudly claimed by the "Soo" whose citizens claim that it was on the old McNeerney farm site, just around a bend in the river from Hiawatha's shipyard.

Seven Wonders

As the ancient world is said to possess "seven wonders," so the Upper Peninsula lays claim to seven spots of distinction.

First are the ship locks and canals at the "Soo" which overcome nature's obstacle of a drop of 20 feet between Lake Superior and St. Mary's river in the distance of only a mile or so.

Second is Isle Royale, 50 miles out in Lake Superior and now a federal park that merits the Bunyonesque description of being the "last bit of aboriginal virgin nature in the Northwest." The National Park service is building docks and a few trails, but the intention is to let Nature alone and keep the island in as primitive state as possible. Here is the America's largest moose herd. Scores of prehistoric mining pits are a puzzle to antiquarians.

Third wonder is the huge copper mining plant of Calumet and Hecla, whose shafts contain some of the deepest telephone and railroad installations in the world. This mine is located in the picturesque Keweenaw peninsula whose rocky shores along Lake Superior rival those of New England for sheer grandeur and rugged beauty.

Fourth wonder are the Porcupine mountains and the Lake of the Clouds, reached from Ontonagon. Here is the highest elevation anywhere in the central west. Mountains in Michigan? Yes, it is true.

The fifth wonder is Tahquamenon Falls in a state park reached only by a boat trip down the river. The visitor drives to Soo Junction (off M-28) and takes a "Toonerville Trolley" to the river at Hunter's Mill. There he boards the Tahquamenon "show boat" for a 20-mile trip to the falls, a 40-foot drop of amber water, the second largest cataract east of the Mississippi river, being rivaled only by Niagara Falls.

Next is Kitch-iti-kipi, a big boiling spring near Manistique, called by the Ojibway Indians, "The Mirror of the Evening Star."

The "Pictured Rocks" near Munising complete the series. Near these rock formations along Lake Superior are the Nagawudjoo sand dunes in the vicinity of Grand Marais.

Straits Bridge

"The Soo" city, as you might guess, is an ardent booster for the proposed Straits bridge.

It would mean much to this border metropolis, regardless of how it might affect the towns of St. Ignace and Mackinaw City. Some persons believe a bridge would ruin both terminal towns which now get a good slice of trade from tourists while they wait for the state ferry boats.

Personally, we always look forward to the restful boat trip across the Straits. It is a genuine tourist attraction, a welcome respite from hours behind an automobile wheel. But it admittedly requires time, and that means a lot to permanent residents in this Upper Peninsula country that belongs to Michigan and thinks in terms of Lansing for its state government.

My Neighbor

Overcooking jelly will cause it to have a strong acid flavor and is likely to prevent proper congealing.

Fried mush or hominy grits are good to serve with fried or baked chicken if there is plenty of gravy to accompany both.

To prepare hard-cooked egg yolks or cheese for a garnish press them through a small tea strainer placed directly over the food.

Try combining two or more kinds of soup. The resulting mixture may be served in the regular way or used as a sauce for other dishes.

Cooked cauliflower mixed with cooked peas and a cheese sauce makes a tasty luncheon or supper dish. Serve it over toast or crackers. (Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

Most of us might make far greater progress in the pursuit of happiness if we didn't try so many detours to dodge work.

"Deep Sea" Fishing Winning Popularity

Lansing, Aug. 15—"Deep Sea" trolling for Mackinaw or lake trout in waters of the Great Lakes off northern Michigan coastlines is winning greater popularity among anglers.

Reports to the fish division of the department of conservation indicate this, and it is reflected in the number of sport trolling licenses issued to date by the department.

In the first five weeks of the 1939-40 season approximately the same number of licenses were issued to operators of trolling boats as were certified in the entire previous season. By August 8 there had been 83 licenses for the new season, as compared with 86 for the season which ended June 30.

From a tabulation prepared by the fish division showing the residence of trolling boat proprietors, it is indicated that the business of renting out boats and tackle for the pursuit of lake trout is centered in Grand Traverse bay waters and in the western part of Lake Superior.

New attention is being given the sport, however, in Lake Superior waters off the shore of the "Copper Country" of the upper peninsula. First-time licenses were issued this season to operators in Marquette, Ontonagon, Hancock and Skanee, and additional permits were taken out by Munising residents.

Anglers from all over Michigan and several bordering states are finding lake trolling a thrilling sport. It carries plenty of lure to the angler who likes fish-fighting, as the average trout hooked is five or six pounds and can weigh, according to championship records, as much as 43 pounds.

The sport can be enjoyed at comparatively low cost, officials stated, inasmuch as boats and equipment usually are rented by parties of several persons dividing up expenses. Besides fishing possibilities, parties find the lake cruises a diverting outing, which has been attracting family groups.

Trolling for Mackinaw or lake trout on the Great Lakes is prohibited in Lake Huron during the month of October, in Lake Superior from October 10 to November 4, and in Lake Michigan from October 10 to November 10, during which time lake trout may not be taken in any manner.

Revocation of Driver Licenses Climbing

Surrender of 72 operators' licenses, barring their former holders from the use of all highways, marked a busy week in the operators and chauffeurs division. Revocations under the Financial Responsibility Act embraced cancellations from many states ranging from Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan to San Antonio, Texas.

Strangely enough Kalamazoo and Detroit were tied with five revocations each. Grand Rapids was next with four, while in Lansing there were three licenses revoked.

A recent news release compiled by an eastern insurance company reveals Michigan in twenty-first place among 44 states reporting decrease or increase from deaths resulting from automobile accidents.

During the six months from June 30, 1938, through December 31, 1938, deaths in Michigan highways numbered 578. The first six months of 1939 shows a decrease of 45 deaths, an 8% reduction as compared to the corresponding six month period.

Pennsylvania and Rhode Island show the best record with a reduction in fatalities reaching 37%. New Hampshire is next with a 36% reduction.

Paid Well For Using Improper Plates

A traveling carnival company recently paid $360.50 to the State of Michigan when charged in the Upper Peninsula with the operation of five trucks without Michigan license plates. The company, it was established by Department of State investigators, is a Michigan owned organization but its moving equipment bore license plates of another state. Under the statute a foreign owned vehicle may be operated in the State for a period of 10 days if in commercial use, but in no instance can a Michigan-owned vehicle be operated within the state without Michigan plates.

New Pamphlet Ready
Immediate Effect Acts passed by the regular session of 1939 are now available in pamphlet form and can be secured at the office of the Secretary of State.

"Where can we find another Hitler?" asks one nazi radical. Personally, we're in favor of calling off the search.

MERCHANTS ARE WARNED AGAINST BOGUS SALES TAX COLLECTORS

Lansing, Aug. 14—Merchants throughout the state were warned against bogus sales tax investigators today by Walter F. Reddy, managing director of the State Board of Tax Administration.

Reddy said that he has received numerous complaints that persons falsely representing themselves as tax administration field men are annoying business men and obtaining information to which they have no right.

"All bona fide representatives of the administration have been equipped with full credentials," Reddy said. "Our men have been ordered to show their authority before they request any records. If a man representing himself as an investigator cannot identify himself he is an impostor and the tax payer should notify the nearest sales tax office immediately."

The credentials of authorized investigators carry the state seal and are signed by Reddy or O'ville E. Atwood, late managing director of the tax administration.

Making Brown and Raw Sugar

There are various grades of brown sugar. After the cane is crushed, the syrup is boiled and evaporated into a soft, sticky mass. This is the raw sugar. It contains a large amount of molasses. Through refining the molasses is removed and finally white sugar results. The brown sugar closest to white sugar is a soft sugar which has a very light creamy color.

Some farmers move to town and start a grocery store, while others prefer the old way of going broke on the farm.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

MONTAIGNE'S 'GREAT REGISTER'

IF EVERYTHING else that gifted writer, Michael Equem de Montaigne, wrote were to disappear, the world would still be indebted to him for his ideas on what he called his "great register."

Montaigne was a Frenchman who lived and wrote 400 years ago. Now admired excessively by a few readers, he's almost forgotten by the world at large. But every time you read an advertisement in your newspaper, you do homage to his memory.

For it was his idea that people, who want to buy, need some place where they can get information about the products which others have to sell. In Montaigne's time the buyer had to look for the seller, the seller had to look for the buyer.

Montaigne proposed a register to be posted where all might see. Here the owners of things they wanted to sell would list them. Here also those who had needs would list those needs. Buyer and seller would thus be brought together.

It was a good idea. It still is a good idea. Every time, indeed, you look over the "ads" in your newspaper you express your approval of the idea.

Sellers tell you what they have.

Charles Roth

You save time and money because you compare what one seller offers with what another offers. You judge which is the better value.

Norman Angell, the English writer, wished that someone had advertised more in England when he set out to buy a horse scraper for some farming operations he had on hand.

He scanned the advertisements. No scrapers. He wrote a few manufacturers he knew. No scrapers. Later he came to America and in Chicago discovered, through an advertisement, of a horse scraper for sale. He looked into the matter—and found it was made within 20 miles of his English farm.

That you have a "great register" coming to you regularly, with the day's best opportunities to buy the things you need, is one of the beatitudes of living in America and in these modern times.

You do not, like Mr. Angell, have to fret and worry and search for what you need. You merely open the pages of the newspaper, and, there right in front of you, find a world of useful things from all over the world.

The more you rely upon the "great register" of modern life to help you in your buying, the more you get from every penny you spend. The best values, the best merchandise, the best prices—they comprise the contents of that useful, indispensable modern version of Montaigne's sound idea.

Homemade Jelly Wins Prize for Farmer!

LAST year Ervin Swinehart, of Exeland, Wisconsin, received a premium from the Sawyer County Agricultural Fair for his homemade chokecherry jelly.

Mr. Swinehart, who farms 240 acres, admits that his hobby is helping children. As a school officer and 4-H Club leader, he believes that no leader can be a good leader without doing the work himself—and when it comes to lessons in jellymaking, this prize winner certainly knows what he's talking about. Mr. Swinehart's cooking ability "runs in the family," too—for when his daughter, Sylvia, was only 12 years old she won first place in the International Contest.

Any man who wants to make a batch of homemade jellies would do well to use a champion recipe like this one. He'll have a perfect product every time—whether or not he enters it at the fair to compete for a prize like Mr. Swinehart's!

FRESH MINT JELLY
(Makes about 5 medium glasses)
1 cup spearmint leaves and stems, packed
3/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup apple vinegar
1 cup water
Green coloring
1/4 bottle fruit pectin
Wash spearmint. Do not remove the leaves from stems.
Measure into 3-quart saucepan and press with wooden potato masher or glass. Measure sugar, vinegar and water into saucepan and mix with mint.
Bring to a boil over hottest fire. While mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade. As soon as mixture boils, add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire and skim. To remove all trace of mint leaves, pour hot jelly through fine sieve into glasses. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Hundreds of blueberry pickers soon will be swarming over Upper Peninsula uplands, gathering this succulent wild fruit for big-city markets. The pickers are recruited from all sections of Michigan and from states to the south. They combine work (and blueberry picking is hard work) with recreation in the north woods. The above scene was taken in a berry pickers' camp northeast of N. Berry in the Lake Superior State Forest. A crew of 500 pickers has gathered $60,000 worth of berries in a season which continues until the first frosts. Note the crate carrier on picker's back.

We heard a clever little story the other day involving two prominent women of our neighboring town, Maple Forest. It seems they were driving alone to the New York World's Fair and passing through Detroit, became confused at the multiplicity of overhead and curb traffic signals, and ran the stop light. A huge, burley policeman blew his whistle, waved them to the curb and striding over demanded in irate tones, "Where you from?" "Maple Forest," meekly responded the driver. "Maple Forest? Humph! never heard of it." "You haven't?" was the amazed response, "Why, it's the Gateway to Lovells!" and a wave of the hand sent them on their way rejoicing.

The lock on the back door had been broken and the lock taken away. Early this summer they lost $12.00 in goods, however, the young culprits were discovered and severely reprimanded for the theft. He was returning from Kalkaska with 700 quarts of milk on the back of the Grayling Dairy pick-up, when a tire blew out, turning the truck over three times. The load on the back was so heavy that it was impossible to hold the truck on the road. The accident occurred four miles west of Grayling on M 76 Saturday morning about 10 o'clock. There was little traffic on the highway at that time and it was quite some time before Vilho managed to flag a passing car and was taken to Mercy Hospital. Milk and milk cans were strewn all over the highway.

YOUNG AND OLD ENJOY AIR-PLANE RIDES

"Fly—40c" was the high-sign to a large number of our people, and Tuesday afternoon saw a lot of them at the Grayling airport ready to try the wings. The huge tri-motor, 12-passenger airliner was kept busy from 4:00 p. m. to dark. Old and young alike enjoyed the privilege of "going up."

And the young kids were right there in bunches with forty-centes squeezed tightly in their hands, ready to get aboard. One gang in particular had a great time. They were Bob Chappel, Bob LaChappelle, Jacquelin Harwood, Joan Harwood, Margaret Charron and Irene Robarge. Mrs. Henry Davis was on the same ride, but that didn't satisfy her and she chartered a single-passenger plane and took a long trip down the AuSable river. And for good measure, she was given the thrill of a nose dive.

The big planes were kept busy that day and they gave a lot of people a good time and, to some, a new thrill.

everyday world that I felt as if I were on some strange planet. The Taku Glacier is alive—that is, it is moving to the ocean and dropping great bergs into the sea, which look like molded figures of the whitest ice cream floating on the water. The face of the glacier was a mile wide and more than two hundred feet high.

Juneau

Same Morning

It took the Longshoremen nine hours to unload the iron balls for the gold crushing plant, so as a guest of the U. S. Marshal, William Mahoney, I had plenty of time to see all points of interest in the Capital city of Juneau.

Juneau is beautifully situated at the head of Gastineau Channel, right on the water, with wooded mountains rising almost perpendicularly behind it, to a height of perhaps two thousand feet. Most of the houses and streets stand upon stilts. Some of the streets are plankled but in the business districts they have been replaced with cement or macadam.

We visited the government building, a beautiful structure built of fossilized Alaskan marble. It contains the Federal offices and the most complete museum in Alaska. An inspection of the jail followed. A scaffold was being erected in the front yard for a hanging. A sorry-looking Frenchman had murdered his mother-in-law.

A cooling drink at the Baranof Hotel was most refreshing. This is by far the finest hotel in Alaska. Modernistic in design, with everything from a cocktail bar to a bridal suite.

From Juneau we drove to see the Mendenhall Glacier. The moraine of this mighty ice mass lies within nine miles of the city. The sides of the road along the way were lined with ferns of a dozen varieties, and wild flowers, blue, red, and yellow. We passed through great beds of crimson fireweed, lupins, the hue of the sky, and fuzzy yellow Alaskan cotton.

The Mendenhall Glacier, which is a mile wide, looked like a huge corrugated wall of blue. Its face ploughed by deep furrows, with a large cave in the front. We left the car and climbed over rocks to the edge of the glacial stream which flows along the face of the ice wall.

An Alaskan garden, kept by a man with one eye, who always wanted the marshal to bring him a blind wife, was visited next. I put on my colored glasses and the Marshal led me into the old man's garden, telling him that at long last he had brought him the girl of his heart's desire. He let me pick and eat all the ripe strawberries I could find. They were as large as apples, and of fine flavor. I saw dahlias as big as dinner plates, cabbages as big as a tub, and pulled up turnips that would surprise the soil of the temperate zone.

Hoonah, A Surprise Port

July 16, 1939

The boat entered one of the deep fiords of Chichagof Island and docked at a salmon cannery town, not on our itinerary. It was a happy surprise, however, for while the ship took on a load of canned salmon, we had time to look about an Indian village nearby.

The Indian men and children were squatting about their huts. The squaws were sitting along the loading dock selling their hand-woven baskets, blankets, and moccasins to the tourists. They dislike to have anyone pass behind them so they sit with their backs against the wall. Indian women control the family purse, and the financial worries of the squaw-man is at an end, when he finds a woman with a good line of moccasins.

A young man standing on the dock offered to take us through the cannery where the sock-eye or red salmon was being canned. Here we saw thousands of salmon, still alive and flopping, being carried by a conveyor into the "Iron Chink," a machine which cleans each fish, cutting off its head, tail, and fins in a fraction of a second. It can clean thirty thousand fish in eight hours or as much as was formerly done by fifty of the most expert Chinese.

Each fish is carefully inspected as it passes over an endless belt to the chopper. The chopper automatically cuts the fish into pieces of the right size for the can. Another machine puts into each can just sixteen ounces.

After this the covers of the cans are fitted on, leaving an escape for steam, and the tins travel into an exhaust box where the temperature is 212 degrees. They are removed from here and after they have finished "popping" they are sealed and moved into great retorts where they are cooked at 212 degrees for an hour and a half. When they come out they are ready to be labelled, packed into boxes for shipment.

The refuse from the cannery is hauled away to the fox farms, which are rapidly becoming a substantial industry, with over two hundred farms, the majority of which are on islands along the coast.

Skagway

July 17, 1939

Skagway was our next port of call—celebrated in 1898 as the chief gateway to rich gold fields. Here miners came by the thousands to go over the White Pass to the Golden Klondike. It grew to a city of twenty-thousand, then the miners began to play out, the miners grew fewer. Saloons and dance halls disappeared and the city dwindled to three hundred persons who make their living mostly from the tourists. It is often called the "Town of the Living Dead."

We arrived at Skagway late Saturday night. The plank dock ran half a mile from the town out into the canal where the boat docked. Taxies hurried back and forth to the boat with passengers.

Old "Sourdough Itchin'" sat in his bus on the loading dock. He offered a tour and story of the city for fifty cents, so off we went.

The bus looked like an old street car, with an effigy of the famous outlaw "Soapy Smith" in the front and a Kodiak bear in the rear. As we rode along the old "Sourdough" told the Cheechakos (tenderfeet) of the days of '98, during Skagway's drunken prosperity. "It was wide open then," he said. "This town had sixty-one saloons, with neither courts nor police. It was a stronghold for Soapy Smith and his band of outlaws."

They murdered, robbed and terrorized the community during those wild goldrush days, which ceased only with the death of "Soapy," who killed, and was killed by Frankie Reid.

We stopped at "Soapy's" gambling saloon and saw the shooting enacted by stuffed figures. "Soapy" Smith stood at the bar and Frankie sat in a chair. A button was pressed—they shoot and fall. "Rose of the Klondike" sat on a miner's knee in the corner, her red silk garters showing beneath the ruffles of her skirt. A cigarette hung from her mouth.

Next we stopped in a park beside the statue of Molly Walsh. She operated the "Haven of Joy" on Main Street. A miner fell in love with Molly but she wasn't the kind of a girl to take home to mother, so when his pockets were filled with gold, he left Molly in Skagway, married a girl in Seattle, and had two children. He still thought a lot of Molly, for on hearing of her death, he returned to Skagway, established a lovely park and erected a monument in her memory. "The wife had the children," said the old man, "but Molly got the tombstone."

The next stop was at Blanchard's Garden. Here we saw huge dahlias ten inches across, sweet peas eight feet high, while pansies are, often three inches and asters six inches in diameter. There were also gorgeous bulb petunias, gladioli, and delphinium, in fact almost every variety of floral life ordinarily grown in the temperate zone.

The trip ended at Reid's Falls, at the foot of which Frankie, "Soapy," and other miners are buried. We panned gold from the pay dirt at the side of the falls and were returned to the boat in time for dinner.

White Pass And the Yukon Route

July 17, 1939

As the ship remained in Skagway over fifty-eight hours, it afforded time for a trip into the interior over the White Pass and Yukon Route by rail, following along the old trail of '98, to White Horse and the headwaters of the Yukon River.

The trip only cost seventeen dollars and "you can't take it with you," so all aboard for White Horse and a promise of a caribou dinner.

After leaving Skagway the train ran through the rocks along the winding valley of Skagway River and up the steep slope of the coast mountains. Here and there the tracks hang to the sides of the cliff so steep that workmen must have had to hang on like bats in order to blast out the road bed.

We cross a bridge over the canyon which is the farthest north Cantlever bridge in the world. There is a sudden jump, the train comes to a stop, I investigated the trouble. You can imagine my mixed emotions on seeing the two coaches ahead, off the track and hanging over the canyon at a 45 degree slant. There was no place to stand if one did get out so the passengers helplessly stayed inside and awaited the wreck. It was all cleared up in no time. Canadian Mounties entered as we neared the boundary line.

I didn't feel much like eating the caribou dinner at the end of the journey. It was served lumber camp style. Everything must have tasted grand by the way the people were eating, but it was all too much for me. I walked out and busied myself looking at an Eskimo girl with her husky team.

Sitka

July 18, 1939

The ship arrived at Sitka about eleven in the morning. This town was the original Capital of Alaska under the Russian regime. Baranof, the Russian governor of Alaska, established a fur trading post here in 1799.

The first building to meet one's gaze was the Russian Cathedral. It stood at the end of the wharf. It was built during the Russian occupation. For fifty cents each, the passengers were conducted through the church by a Russian priest. He showed us the famous paintings brought across Siberia from St. Petersburg, chalice that were gifts of royalty, and holy pictures embellished with silver and precious stones. One painting of a madonna and child, called the "Lady of Kazan," is valued at twenty-five thousand dollars.

On leaving the church we proceeded to the Sheldon Jackson Indian Industrial School, consisting of a half-dozen buildings belonging to the Presbyterians. The buildings include industrial departments and dormitories for both boys and girls. The children are clean and well dressed. The students sell the handiwork done in the institution. It is displayed and sold in the museum at the entrance of the park. Fancy work, basket weaving, ivory carving, leather sewing, copper hammering, and other Indian and Eskimo arts are encouraged and taught in the school.

We then walked through the beautiful National Park. Its famous Lover's Lane contains many splendid specimens of totem poles.

A blast from the ship tells we have but a half hour more, and this is our last stop in Alaska. It seems to me I could write forever about this trip. I have travelled some, but I have yet to find a place more delightful or more interesting than our mighty land of the North. The West has beautiful sunsets, but nowhere have I seen such softly burning, milky-rose, opaline effects of the sun as on this inland voyage. Just where the charm lies it is hard to say. Perhaps the true magic of Alaska is best expressed by Robert Service's "Spell of the Yukon":

There's a land where the mountains are nameless,
And the rivers all run God knows where;
There are lives that are erring and aimless
And deaths that just hang by a hair;
There are hardships that nobody reckons;
There are valleys unpeopled and still;
There's a land—oh, it beckons and beckons.
And I want to go back—and I will.

BEAR GOT THEIR LUNCH

Near and dear to the heart of every CCC boy is the noon-day pause that refreshes, especially if he has been chaining up and down steep ravines on the northern side of the Tahquamenon River on the park survey crew. So it was with a feeling of deep concern that four CCC Camp Paradise enrollees turned about face at the cry of a fifth member "A bear is stealing our lunch!"

Sure enough, on the opposite side of the deep ravine a black villain in bear-skin could be seen rooting around in the lunch box, pausing to gulp down a cookie or a jam sandwich—whichever came nearest his snout.

To the rescue—five enraged boys scrambled down one side of the valley and up the other, but the damage had been done.

This episode occurred on June 15, 1939, while a State Park Survey crew were engaged in mapping regions between the upper and lower falls of the Tahquamenon River under the direction of J. A. Webb, Engineering Aide.

Are you raising your boy to be president? Whether you are, or not, you'll enjoy reading the article by Frances Cavanah in next Sunday's issue of this Week Magazine, with The Sunday Detroit News. Miss Cavanah has gone back through the life stories of all our past presidents, and found that they were just like your boy—played hooky, got into fights, everything. ## Catholic Hospitals Get Fine Compliment

The following article was clipped from a recent edition of the Chattanooga Free Press:

To The Chattanooga Free Press: I see in The Free Press that the Sisters of Charity, a Catholic society, have offered to take over the Erlanger Hospital. I like to explain to the public my observation of just such incident which have occurred in other places and hope the city officials of Chattanooga will have sense enough to act accordingly.

In Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, the Protestants of the county built and equipped a hospital, then gave it to the Catholics to operate. It has been a beautiful success ever since. It is now noticed all over the state for its efficiency and humanitarian treatment. It is located in a poor community, where a dollar must produce 100 cents worth.

In all my 70 years of life, and I have lived in many countries, I have yet to see or hear of any Catholic institution fail or go bankrupt. I am sure that the Erlanger Hospital operated by the Catholics will give the public far better service than any in the past, because it will be run for service for the benefit of human kind and not for the glorification of the dollar.

I understand that the Catholics do not put the dollar before God nor worship it. I am born and reared a Lutheran, therefore my observation and admiration for the efficiency and moral way the Catholics' hospitals throughout the United States is impartial. It will be a relief to the taxpayers to be rid of that money absorbing (sinking fund) bottomless pit. We need the hospital, a bigger and better hospital, but most of all, we need it run efficiently and economically.

I wish someone would take the auditorium off our hands.

Nemesius Nielsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Nemesius Nielsen are former Grayling residents. At one time they resided at Forest View, Beaver Creek township where Mrs. Nielsen was postmistress. Later they moved to Grayling. Mr. Nielsen was an artist and made a number of portraits in oil, among which was one of Dr. Oscar Palmer, then prosecuting attorney of Crawford county. This portrait (life size) still hangs in the court room.

They came here from Chattanooga and returned to that city from Grayling. Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen are pretty well along in years and, according to Mr. Nielsen, both are in poor health. We remember them as splendid citizens and their friends will wish for their improved health.

Found "New" Hidden Lake

The fisherman's version of the rainbow's end, a lake with an endless supply of big, scrappy fish and nobody else aware of its existence, has been discovered by a Lansing man and his brother—but to get to it they had to use modern trail blazing methods that would have put a frontier Indian scout to shame.

The hidden lake is tucked away in woods and swamplands of the remote reaches of northern Michigan. The two men keeping this fish-catching paradise a secret are Herb Lewis, and his brother Frederick, whose home town Herb won't reveal as it might tip off inquisitive fellow anglers, according to the version reaching the conservation department.

Frederic is a private airplane pilot, and the brothers have used the ship to take weekend fishing jaunts. Lately they spotted what they since have called "their lake" so hidden it must have escaped the map-maker.

"They twice landed the plane and tried to find their way into the lake, but were unsuccessful. Deep swamps and thick undergrowth and woods tangled them up. Then they attacked the problem from a true up-to-date angle.

They loaded their ship with paper sacks filled with white flour, flew over the lake, dropping the "bombs" every few feet. Thus they neatly blazed their trail from the landing field three miles in to the water's edge. This gave them a sure thing trail to follow and, so they tell it, the fishing is wonderful. They have a canoe hidden there now, and it takes two trips to get their provisions and equipment from the plane to the lake by "packing" the stuff on their backs.

The Band Builder

(The following is the 3rd of a series of articles on Bands, written by Herbert L. Rowland).

The bass horn, that attractive instrument that John Philip Sousa made so popular through his designing the sousaphone, is the foundation of all modern bands.

There are several types of bass horns such as the upright bass, recording bass, helicon and sousaphone. The latter one being the most popular and most attractive of all types of bass instruments used in military bands. The recording bass is many times found in symphony orchestras and dance bands.

This instrument, the sousaphone, is used in the bands because of several reasons, their appearance, ease in carrying on the march, and the bell facing forward pushes the tones directly forward. This latter reason allows the player to produce a more pure tone because it is not necessary to blow hard thereby forcing the tone.

Our band is blessed with two such instruments. At present we have two up-and-coming bass players in Allen Stevenson and Harold Jankowski. At the beginning of the 1939-40 school year two more students will begin to learn the bass horn. In this way the band will always have new musicians coming up to take the place of those who graduate. Then by next spring we will have six bass players as in February another group of beginners will be groomed.

The work in general of the bass horn is that of laying a foundation to a musical chord. This is relatively simple to play, however, the instrument often finds scale-wise runs that add to the interest of the music as well as to the interest of the work of the musician.

The bass horn is built in two keys namely, Bb and Eb. The Bb instrument is the lower of the two horns, being able to play about a half octave lower than the Eb, and it is a little larger in construction although built on the same principal as the Eb.

The Grayling high school band's basses are of the Eb variety. One fine feature of this instrument is that any cornet or trumpet player can be groomed to play an Eb bass in a short time as the fingering and reading is almost identical.

Those who heard the Grayling high school band last Friday evening were presented with a bass solo played as a duet by the two boys before mentioned in this article. This work shows that this instrument has other work than building a foundation. I wish to here comment on the fine performance made by these boys on their first appearances as bass soloists.

JUSTICE KADEN RULES IN FAVOR OF PEPSI-COLA

Quiet was restored this morning by Supreme Court Justice Kaden in the battle that has been raging at the World's Fair over whether Pepsi-Cola can be sold at Billy Rose's Aquacade despite Coca-Cola's general concession from the Fair.

Some months ago Billy Rose made arrangements with Pepsi-Cola Company to sell Pepsi-Cola exclusively in his Aquacade. A contract to that effect was entered into with the written consent of Counsel for the Fair.

But Pepsi-Cola at the Aquacade became a great hit, and Coca-Cola brought suit against the World's Fair for allowing Billy Rose to sell Pepsi-Cola there. The Fair then ordered Billy Rose to stop his flourishing sales of Pepsi-Cola, but Billy Rose didn't want to stop.

August 9th Mr. Justice Kaden ruled in favor of Pepsi-Cola, and sales of Pepsi-Cola at the Aquacade will continue, while the lawyers fight the matter through the courts.
